

TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1744.

Venice, December 29.

THE Accounts we have from the different Parts of the East differ extremely; or to speak the whole Truth, contradict each other flatly; inasmuch that it is a very difficult Matter so much as to guess at the Truth. We have a formal Relation from Constantinople, of a great Victory gained by the Turks over the Persians; and, on the other hand, we have several concurrent Accounts from different Places, of the Persians having taken the City of Mosul, and being in full March for Aleppo. This City of Mosul stands upon the River Tygris, and seems to be not far from the ancient Nineveh. It is a large and opulent Place, or at least was so, while the Trade between the Turkish and Persian Empires remained undisturbed, by reason of the Convenience of sending Goods down to Bagdat; and is from thence considered as a Place of the greatest Consequence in that Part of the World. The only Way that can be thought of to make these different Stories agree, is to suppose the Account we have from Constantinople prior to that which comes by the Way of Gilan. I say, to suppose it; because, tho' the former is dated, the latter is not; and therefore there can be no absolute Certainty, the Circumstances of the Thing, however, renders this Conjecture extremely probable. For in the last mentioned Account we are told, that Shah Nadir, after investing Mosul, thought fit to attempt the Place by Storm, in which he was repulsed; but after this, he defeated a Body of Turks which were marching to the Relief of the City, and then returned to, and made himself Master of it; putting the Garrison, and many of the Inhabitants to the Sword. This may be true, if we refer the Relation sent us from Constantinople to the Attempt in which the Shah miscarried; and it appears the more likely to be true, because all our Accounts from the Lesser Asia agree, that the Turks are levying Forces with incredible Diligence.

Rome, December 21. Last Wednesday in the Afternoon M. Simonetti was installed, with the accustomed Ceremonies, Governor of this Capital, in the Room of Cardinal Rieck, who, that Morning, delivered his Staff of Office to his Holiness. M. Enriquez is appointed Nuncio to the Court of Spain; M. Tempi, who is at present at Brussels, will go to Portugal; M. Crevelli, Nuncio at Cologne, will remove to Brussels; and M. Barba Odelschki has Orders to go to Cologne.

Mantua, December 26. Our Governor has issued Orders for preparing Quarters for 9000 Men, that are actually marching hither from Bavaria, by the Way of Tyrol. Two Austrian Regiments which are expected the Day after To-morrow on the Frontiers of this Duchy, have Orders sent them to continue their March, in order to join Prince Lobkowitz as soon as possible; and, it is then believed, his Highness will find himself in a Condition to attack the Spaniards in their Retrenchments.

Venna, January 1. Her Majesty has given Directions for repairing all the Fortifications in Bavaria, as also for restoring some of the Magazines, and putting the necessary Garrisons in Munich, Ingoldstadt, and Straubingen. We no longer give ourselves any Pain about the Progress of the French on the Rhine, tho' they still continue to assemble in the Neighbourhood of Hunninguen; because the Circle of Suabia has already taken the Alarm, and provided such a Body of Troops, as will prevent the French from attempting any Thing on that Side. This was brought about by the Care and Diligence of M. Palm, who has thereby defeated all the fine-spun Schemes of the Court of France. The Ministry is much employed here, in examining several Schemes for improving the Finances in the Kingdoms of Bohemia and Hungary; and, it is hoped, we shall feel the Effects of their Endeavours, in the easy raising of Supplies for the present Year. The Hanacks are already in Motion, and we expect, that 5000 of them will be ready to take the Field by the First of March, and the rest by the End of that Month at furthest.

Ulm, January 4. The States of the Circle of Suabia, at present assembled in this City, thought proper, on the 2d of this Month, to name the General Officers that are to command the Troops of the Circle, which are speedily to form a Camp upon the Rhine, to watch the Motions of the French, and prevent their passing that River, in order to re-kindle the Flames of War in the Bosom of the Empire. With this View, General Piuhi was declared General of Horse; the Prince of Baden-Baden, and Prince Lewis of Furtemberg, Generals of Artillery; the Prince of Sigmaringen, and Count Wigenstein, Lieutenant-Generals of Horse; the Prince Administrator of Baden-Durlach, Prince Augustus of Baden-Baden, and the Prince Administrator of Wurtemberg, Lieutenant-Generals of Foot.

IRELAND.

LONDON.

The Event of the late War in Finland, and the Fare of the two Generals who conducted it, has disabled the French Party in the Senate of Sweden, from doing any Thing; and a Minister is shortly expected here, with Instructions to negotiate a Defensive Alliance.

We learn by Private Letters from Turin, that the Sardinian Majesty has really no Intention to attack the Republic of Genoa, but is resolved to determine his Dispute with them, about the Marquisate of Final, by Negotiation.

The last Letters from Vienna say, that a Promotion will be speedily made in that Court of Civil and Military Officers; and that soon after there will be a grand Nomination of Knights of the Golden Fleece.

Private Letters from Paris assert positively, that not only a Manifesto, but a Declaration of War, will precede the Departure of the French Fleet at Toulon; and that both these Pieces are at present actually in the Press.

His Prussian Majesty's Minister at the Hague had lately a Conference with the Lords of the Regency; and soon after presented a Memorial to the President for the Week, which is said to contain Matters of very great Importance.

The First Instant, N. S. the Fox Man of War, Capt. Erskine, arrived at Lisbon, with several Merchant-ships from Plymouth.

The Marthas, Bracken, from Jamaica for Lancaster, is lost on the North Coast of Scotland.

The Anne, Robinson, from Cork for Leghorn, was taken in the Gut of Gibraltar, and afterwards lost.

His Majesty's Ship the Ipswich, Rear-Admiral Martin, sailed from Lisbon the 17th of December, N. S. for England, with several Merchant-ships under her Convoy.

Frederica in Georgia, September 27, 1743.

One of our Boats took a Boat in Sapola Sound with seven Frenchmen on board, whom they brought to this Place. One of them was the Mate, and the rest Sailors, belonging to a Ship which they said was French, but we suppose to be Spanish, lying at Anchor off Sapola, in great Distress, having lost their Rudder, as they said. These Men were sent to look for some Inhabitants, (taking this to be the Spanish Coast) to give them Assistance; the Captain, and all the Men, having left the Ship. Capt. William Horton, who commands in this Town, dispatched two Boats instantly, to prevent the Indians on Sapola and St. Catharines from destroying them, supposing they would take them for Spaniards, as we believe they are; and order'd a Detachment of General Oglethorpe's Regiment, commanded by Captain James Mackay, on board the Guard Schooner, and gave Orders to Capt. Davis, Commander of the said Schooner, to proceed with the utmost Dispatch, to the Assistance of the Ship, and to bring her into Jekyll Sound. He also sent out Captain Mark Carr with a Party of his Company of Boatmen, to give what Assistance he could in saving the Ship. On Saturday last Captain Davis brought the Ship in Tow off our Bar; but the Wind blowing very fresh, came to an Anchor; but his Cable parting, and Capt. Carr losing his Anchor, they were obliged to leave the Ship with one Anchor only off the Bar, and run in themselves. Captain Horton sent out Archer the Pilot with a Long Boat and a Schooner, to save the Men, in case the Ship should drive from her Anchor; but the next Day, the Wind being fair, they cut the Cable, and brought her safe into Jekyll Sound. She has on board, in Spanish Silver, between 11 and 1200 l. Sterling. Her Cargo consists of Cochineal, Indigo, and Sugar; and, according to the Captain's Computation, upwards of 10,000 l. Sterling Value. It will be proved she was loaded in the Havanna for Old Spain, tho' they have counterfeit Papers on board pretending she is a French Ship.

Yesterday Sir Richard Warwick Bampfild, Baronet, lately chosen Member of Parliament for the City of Exeter, with several other new chose Members, took the Oaths, and their respective Seats in the House of Commons.

Yesterday a Woman tolerably well dress'd was found drown'd in a Ditch in the Willow Walk leading from Tottill Fields to Chelsea. 'Tis supposed the Occasion of it was by having a Link, which dazzled her Eyes so that she mistook her Way. It is not yet known to whom she belongs.

Yesterday died suddenly, at his House in Piccadilly, Mr. Warkins, a great Cornfactor.
